

Thomas G. Crimi, M.D.

Dr. Crimi is an attending anesthesiologist, Department of Anesthesiology at the Brookdale University Hospital and Medical Center, Brooklyn, N.Y. Dr. Crimi is the Director of the Blood Conservation Program and Associate Director of Clinical Research at Brookdale. Dr. Crimi held the rank of Major in the US Army Reserve Medical Branch and is a veteran of Desert Storm. Dr. Crimi received his medical degree from CETEC University, Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. He completed his internship and residency in Anesthesiology and fellowships in Pain Management and Obstetrical Anesthesia at Nassau County Medical Center, East Meadow, N.Y. Dr. Crimi has also completed a Clinical Research Fellowship in Neuroanesthesia at Brookdale University Hospital and Medical Center.

Dr. Crimi is a member of many professional organizations, he has published and presented clinical research papers on blood conservation and regional anesthesia. In addition he has designed and co-patented a Hemodilution Collection System, and has received several professional recognitions and awards. As an invited or guest speaker and as a visiting professor Dr. Crimi has presented numerous lectures, videos, CD's, posters and scientific exhibits at various local, national and international professional meetings. Dr. Crimi is on the speaker's bureau and advisory boards of numerous biomedical and pharmaceutical companies.